

BREAKING NEWS: DONALD TRUMP IS PREGNANT!

In a completely predictable and prophetically foretold development of historical and modern developments, a childish personality has become pregnant by his own seeds!

(127) And it often happens that he who professes some one of the indifferent branches of knowledge, when he meets with a pupil of good natural qualifications, boasts of his success in teaching, thinking that he, by himself and alone, is the cause of his pupil's facility in learning. And then, becoming elated and puffing himself up, he holds his head high, and draws his eyebrows and becomes

Donald Trump, after illegally spying on others and childishly mimicking the complaints he gathered, bullied his classmates into following his way of criticizing everyone around him.

After successfully harnessing those complaints to become a leader of his own, he has foolishly deceived himself into believing that he is / was the cause of his successful rise above others.

full of pride, and asks very high terms from those who desire to become his pupils; but those whom he perceives to be poor but still to be eager for instruction, he rejects and repels, as if he were the only person who had found a treasure of wisdom. (128) This is the meaning of the expression, “to conceive,” namely, to be full of pride, and to be puffed up with arrogance beyond all moderation, on which account some persons have appeared to dishonour the queen of all the intermediate and indifferent branches of knowledge, virtue, who deserves to be honoured, even for her own sake.

Puffed by arrogance, Mr. Trump has become full of pride and pregnant with his own seed of personal accomplishment. Accordingly, Mr. Trump has alienated everyone else that he previously mimicked, believing that he, himself, is the cause of his successful inflation.

Having failed to distinguish those things that he has confused, namely his successful mirroring from the legitimate complaints of others, Mr. Trump is pushing forth an offspring of sophistry inclined to evil contentions.

(129) All the souls, therefore, which, in connection with prudence, are pregnant of real things, do nevertheless bring forth, separating and distinguishing between things previously in confusion, like Rebekkah; for she having conceived in her womb ideas of two nations, the knowledge of virtue and the knowledge of wickedness, having a fortunate labour separated and distinguished between the nature of each; but those which have conceived without prudence either miscarry or else bring forth an offspring inclined to evil contention and sophistry, always either aiming darts and arrows at others, or having darts and arrows aimed at themselves. (130) And may we not say that this

Mr. Trump's self-impregnation has resulted in an offspring of inflated arrogance, a puffed sense of self importance, and of evil contention that is always (literally always) aiming darts and arrows at everyone around him.

Unfortunately for the inflated offspring of Mr. Trump, he failed to realize that pressing his bow and arrows against everyone else will also bring the darts and arrows toward himself in response.

For a solid personality that is free from puffery and self-arrogance, this may not be such a threat. But, to the self-impregnated, puffed arrogance of a child imitating the complaints of others, the consequences will prove themselves to be a 'windfall' to those that oppose him.

Italian politicians across the spectrum showed their solidarity with Leo. Premier Giorgia Meloni sent a message of support for his peace mission while the leader of the main opposition party, Elly Schlein, was more direct, calling Trump's attacks "extremely serious."

Trump post appearing to depict himself as Jesus sparks backlash from religious right

Evangelical and Catholic allies call the post "blasphemous" and urge its removal in a rare public break from a base that has largely stood by Trump.

"I don't know if the President thought he was being funny or if he is under the influence of some substance or what possible explanation he could have for this OUTRAGEOUS blasphemy," wrote Megan Basham, a prominent conservative Protestant Christian writer and commentator. "But he needs to take this down immediately and ask for forgiveness from the American people and then from God."

"This post is, frankly, disgusting and unacceptable, but also a profound misreading of the American people experiencing a true and beautiful revival of faith in Christ in the midst of our broken culture," Brown wrote.

The self-impregnated offspring of a childishy-mimicking bully has not been well received today as many in the world are waking up to the foolish look of the true person stripped of his puffy shirt and jacket.

No, little Don-knee, we are not having a good time.
